Tuberculosis Exhibit Commended by State Board of Health Secretary-Weekapaug Beach and Land Company Incorporated-$30,000 Suit Against Pawcatuck Valley Street Railway Company-$10,000 Fire at Locustville-Jail for Chicken Thieves.

Raymond N. Hiscox, Arthur F. Anderson, Phiness Randall, Jr., Raymond Douglass Taylor, Carl V. Brucker, William F. And Clarence A. Vars, the eight young men suspended from the Westerly high school by reason of their connection with the M. V. C. seciety, were reinstated at Thursday morning's session. The boys had been notified to return to school and were in their seats at the tap of the bell. They were directed to the office of William H. Halmes, superintendent of schools, but no insistence was made that they withdraw from the society or be compalied to sign any document in relation to the trouble that existed, an account of the action of the school authorities to abolish secret societies from the school.

The boys, however, did agree that to make application in any secret school society while they are pupils in the Westerly high school.

Gardner T. Swartz, secretary of the Rhode island state board of health, has written to the members of the committee on the tuberculosis exhibit in Westerly. He says in part: "The result of the exhibit, from our stand-point, was an unqualified success and point, was an unqualified success and was due to the active interest taken by the Westerly physicians and those associated with them. We were extremely fortunate in having a controller whe conducted his work in a businessilke manner, and I may state to the committee that no one can fully realize the petty difficulties of the responsibilities which come to one in this position. Samuel C. Webster, Jr., handled himself with tact and firmness and with good judgment and rendered his accounts in a businessilke way.

"I am especially grateful to the physicians who acted as lecturers and appreciate the efforts made by those who were frequently on hand, with special comment for those whose duty it was to lock after the schoolchildran. The handling of these groups was done in

"The attendance was all that I expected. Everyone in town seemed to have the fever and was enthusiastle have the fever and was enthusiastle to make the exhibit a success. I think we presented for you the best display that we have ever had in the state, both in the way of variety and novelty. Of course, a great many people could not take it all in, but they must have gone away with a general impression that there was something being done and something to be done in the line of tuberculosis. I can only hope now that the impetus given to the work will be followed up by all of the factors interested."

The boys, however, did agree that so long as they are mambers of the school they will not be in any way concerned with influencing or soliciting any school pupil to join any fraterity, or secret society, directly or indirectly connected with the public schools.

The members of the M. T. E. society and the T. J. S. society have also promised not to solicit members from the student body. Under the agreement, students are free to apply for membership in any of the secret societies.

The non-members have been requested by certain school officials not to make application in any secret school society while they are pupils in the Westerly high school. liberate perfury

With office in Westerly, the Weeka-paug Beach and Land company has filed articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state, the purose of the corporation being the con pose of the corporation being the conduct of a general land and real estate business, with the upbuilding of Weekapaug and vicinity as a special feature. The capitol stock is placed at 220,000; the incorporators are John H. Seed and James A. Smith of Kings county, New York, and Oliver H. Williams of Westerly.

William Langer and George Press, who stole fowl from two farms in Wakefield, while driving from Westerly to Providence, who were captured a Saunderstown by Sheriff John B. Wilcox and assistants, and indicted by the Washington county grand jury at the present session of the superior court, have been sentenced by Judge Brown, who said in passing, that if hen thieving were not stopped, the business of the farmer could not progress.

The young men were found guilty on two counts, and on one they were each sentenced to one year in the Providence county jail and to pay a fine of $100 and costs. On the second count they were given sentences of six months in jail and fines of $100 and costs. The total punishment is eight-een months in jail and a fine of $200 and costs.

Press and Langer claimed that they were employed by Abe Smith, a col-lector of junk and fruit-pedller, whose home was in Providence, and who had een at work in Westerly, and that

The Locustville Woolen mill building in Hope Valley was found to ablaze at 1.30 Thursday afternoon, but was prevented from total destruction by the herele efforts of voinnteer firemen, with the aid of a powerful force pump located on the premises. The fire originated in the picker room on the second floor of the building and burned and floor of the building and burned. ond floor of the building, and burned its way through the third floor and the roof before being extinguished. About 75 are employed in the mill and all escaped without injury and aided in fighting the fire. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

The fire raged for half an bour, and fearing that it could not be controlled, Chief Cottrell of the Westerly fire dechief Cottrell of the wasterly are de-partment was asked to send assist-ance. The chief learned that there were no available hydrants and that there was but very little water in the river, and with Hope Valley thirteen miles away realized the difficulty in randering againstance.
